

Impersonals.

Of Impersonals.

The third person singular of certain Verbs, with the Nominative it set before it, is used Impersonally: as, It rain's, it snow's, it lighten's, it thunder's; it chanceth, it becometh, it delighteth, it is said, it is certain, it is meet, &c. The which is formed in all Moods and Tenses; as, it did rain, it hath rained, it had rained, it will rain, let it rain, it may rain: It doth becom, it did becom, &c.

Participle

Of a Participle.

A Participle is a word derived of a Verb, from which it hath signification of time present, past, or to com.

There be four kinds of Participles.

- 1 A Participle of the Present tens.
- 2 A Participle of the Preter tens.
- 3 A Participle of the First Future tens.
- 4 A Participle of the Second Future tens.

A Participle of the Present tens signifieth the time present, and endeth in ing; as, loving, teaching, reading, bearing.

A Participle of the Preter tens signific's the time past, and always end's in d, t, or n; as, loved, taught, slain.

A Participle of the First Future tens signific's the time to com, like the Infinitive Mood Active; as, about or readie to love.
